

EAST CENTRAL FLORIDA POST DISASTER ECONOMIC REDEVELOPMENT PLAN

Maitland, Florida

The plan provides guidance, processes, and actions for business and government leaders to rapidly restore economic vitality following a disaster. The plan details an organizational framework for coordinated decision-making and information exchange during the difficult and often chaotic disaster recovery period. The project brought together emergency management professionals, economic development councils, and key business organizations to identify examine the interdependencies, economic base, and industries that are particularly vulnerable to business interruption. Through structured working sessions, CGA guided stakeholders in developing goals and issues for recovery as well as building greater economic resiliency.
